

Gladstone plays horse

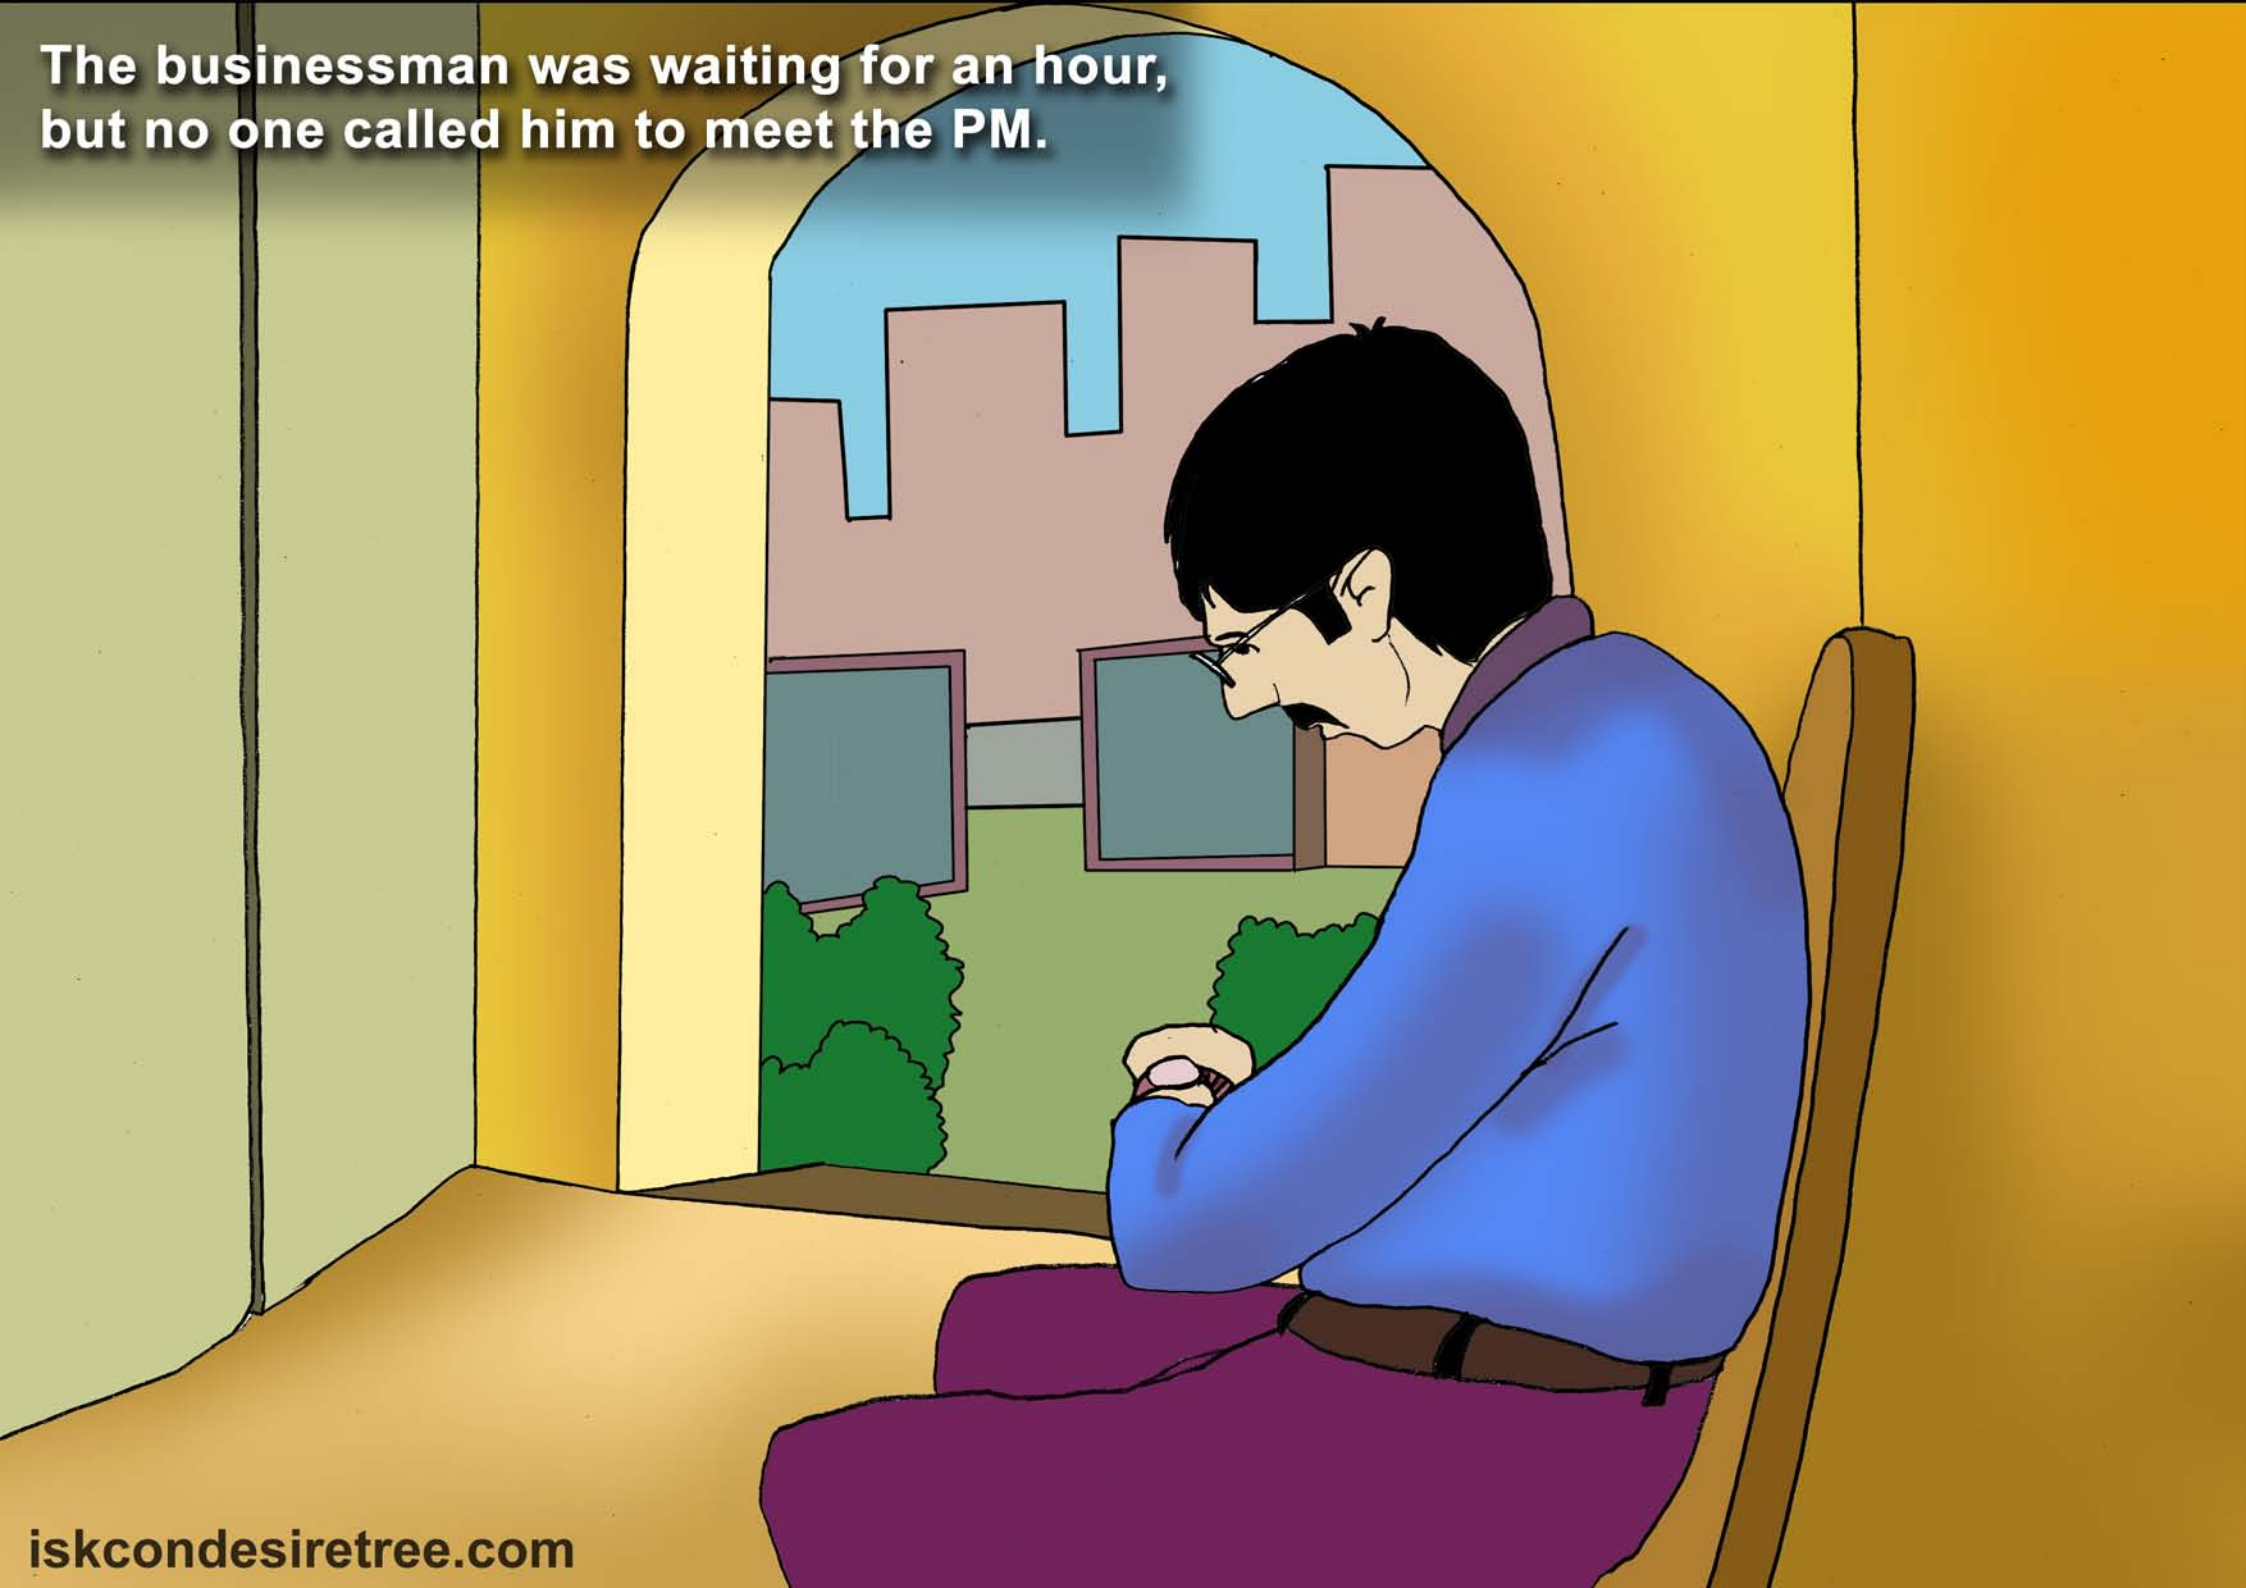

Once a businessman comes to meet the prime minister of England, Mr. Gladstone.

Please wait
the prime minister is busy.

The businessman was waiting for an hour,
but no one called him to meet the PM.

The businessman began to wonder what was keeping the PM so busy.

So he got up and went near the PM's door.

He peeped inside.

He saw that the PM was playing horse,
and he was riding his grandson on his back.

The prime minister was giving time to his grandson by becoming horse for him. He was pleasing his grandson.

MORAL :

The prime minister, he is controlling the British Empire, but he is controlled by a child out of affection. So similarly, Krishna is the supreme controller but He is controlled by His devotee, Srimati Radhrani. Krishna willingly agrees to be controlled by His devotee. This is Krishna's nature. He is "bhakt-vatsal."
