

Greed overcomes intelligence

One day a tiger too old to hunt was walking hungrily on a bank of river...

...suddenly he saw a golden bangle on the banks

I could use it as a bait for hunting humans.
They are always greedy.

Just than a man was passing on the opposite bank.

Man are tasty and man love gold. Let me trap this man & have a great feast.

Hey, my friend!

Do you want this precious golden bangle? I don't need it. Come and take it from me free. You can sell it in market and become very rich!

Wow! This golden bangle appears to be very costly. He is right. If i have it then I can become the richest person in my village. But, I can't go close to him & risk my life.

I would love to have the bangle but I can't come close to you. You will kill me.

You have every reason to suspect me. I have been wicked in my olden times. However, on the advice of a sanyasi, I have changed & now I don't harm humans. So don't fear. Come and take this bangle

When I come close to you, you may forget the advice
of the sanyasi

I am old & my claws are blunt. Do not fear. Come and take this bangle.

The man's lust for gold made him overcome his fear

He seems to be genuine. He is old and can't run as fast as I can. What will he do with that golden bangle? Let me swim across and take the bangle.

Wait there.
I am coming right now.

The man came closer to the tiger.

The bangle really looks very precious. I will sell and set up a huge business.

You are swimming
so slowly. Let me come & help you.

The tiger soon attacked the man. He could not escape as he was in water.

...and finally killed him.

Moral: Greed overcomes intelligence. The attraction for material possessions leads to our destruction.
