

TWO FOOLS

There was one small village. There lived a man with his son

One day they set out for a neighbouring village with a pony. Some village ladies were filling up their pots. Seeing the father and the son with the pony, they exclaimed.....

Both the father and son are fools.
The son could have made sit on the pony

Hearing this, the father made his son sit on the pony. They continued their travel

After some time they came to another village. There under the banyan tree, two men were sitting and chatting

Seeing the son on pony, one man spoke loudly.....

This son has no intelligence. He is young and still he is sitting on the pony and making his poor father walk

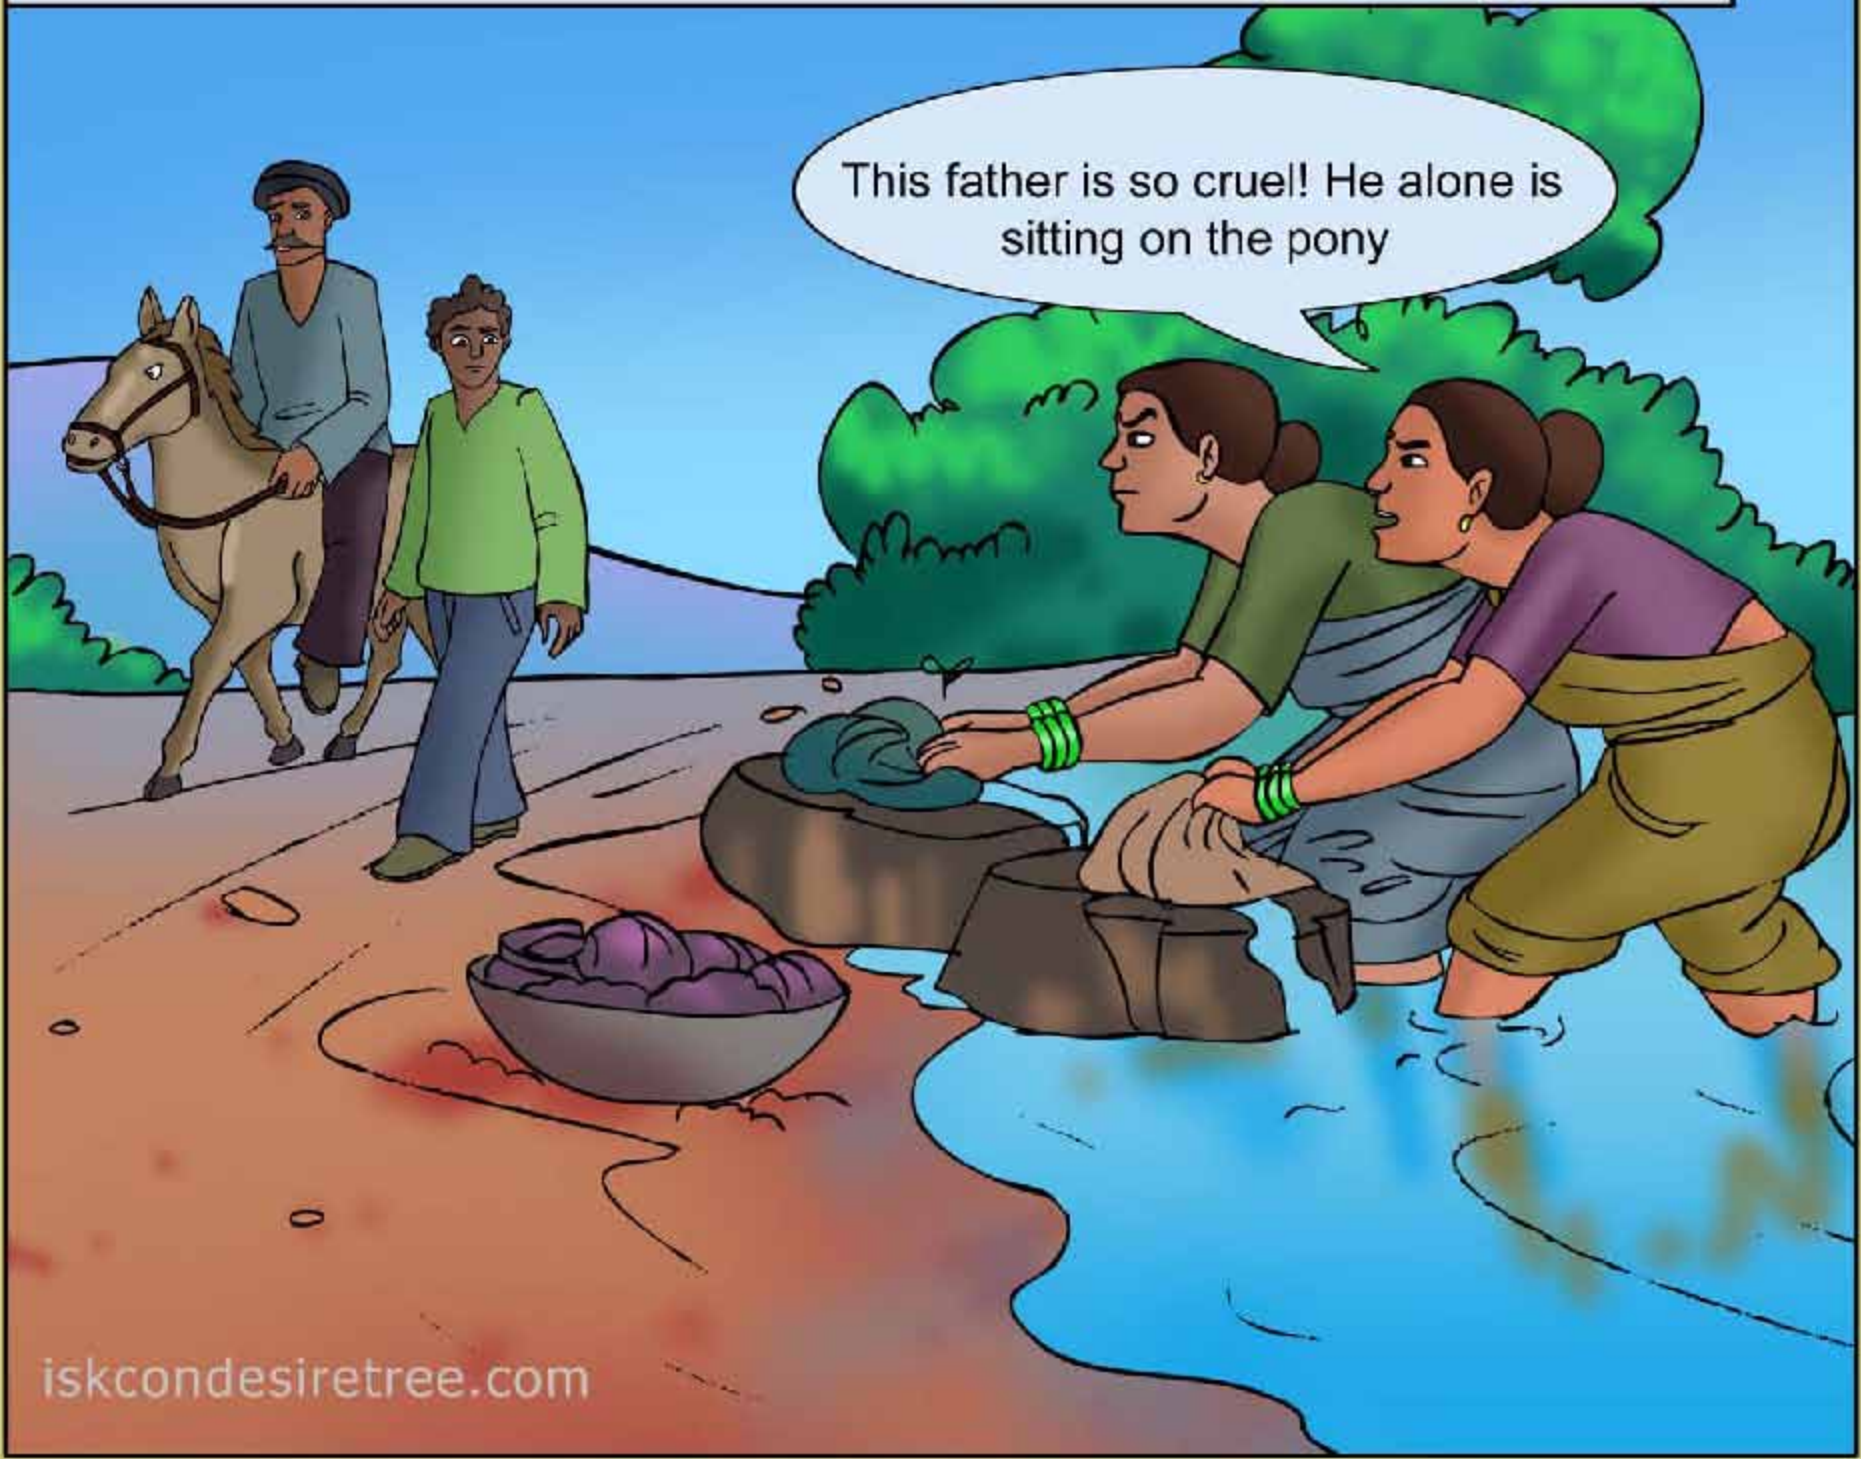

Hearing this, the son.....

....quickly got down and made his father sit on the pony. They came across a pond. On that pond some ladies were washing clothes. One of the ladies said....

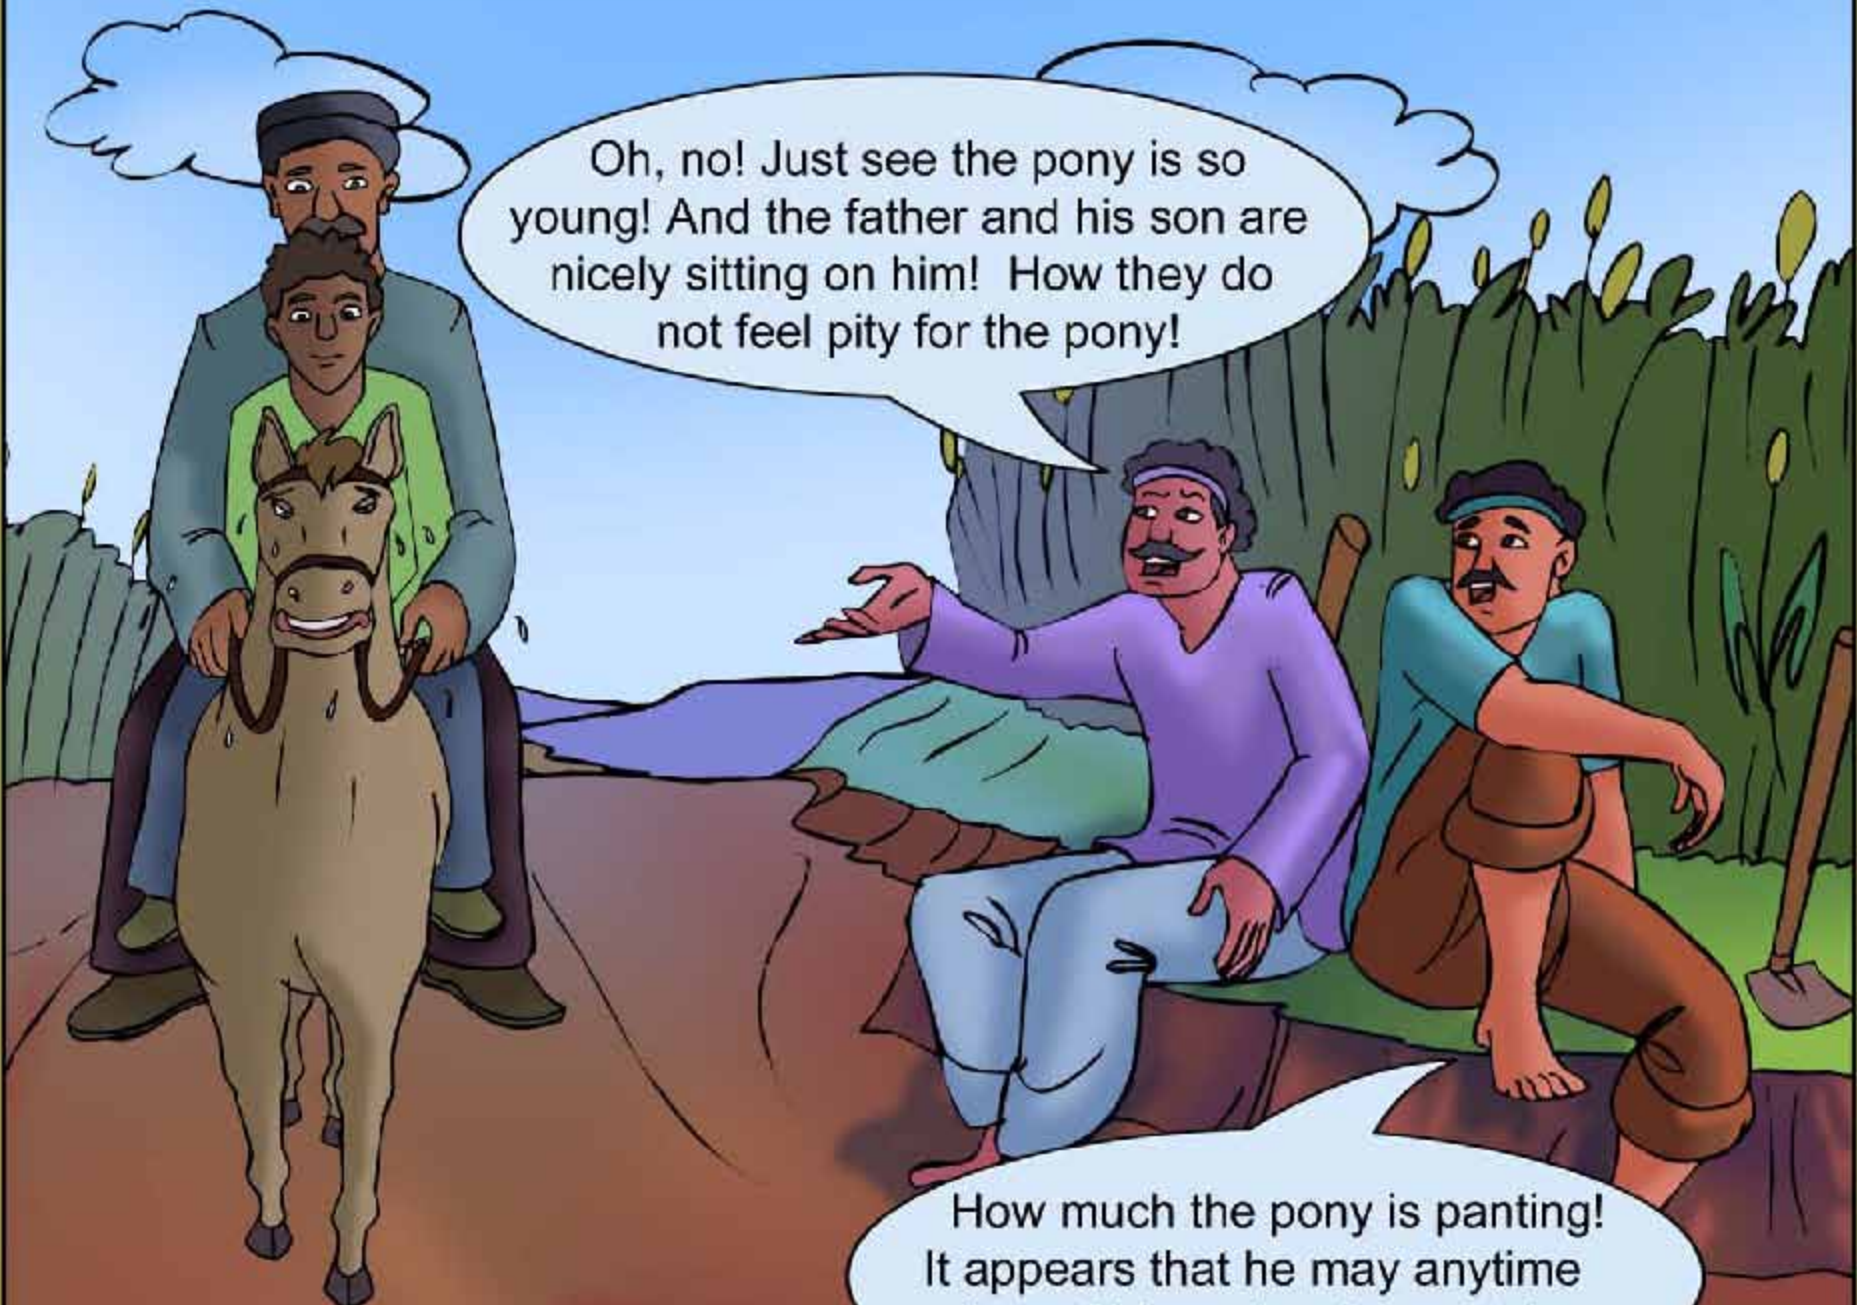

This father is so cruel! He alone is sitting on the pony

Hearing this, the father made his son too sit on the pony

Little later, they came across a field. In that field, there were two farmers chatting. Seeing the father and son sitting on the pony, the farmers said....

Oh, no! Just see the pony is so young! And the father and his son are nicely sitting on him! How they do not feel pity for the pony!

How much the pony is panting!
It appears that he may anytime collapse! I hope he does not loose his life

Hearing this, the father and son both got down from the pony

After a while, they came across a river. On that river, was a weak wooden bridge. The father and the son were passing from the bridge. Being tied upside down, the pony was fed up

On that bridge, some children came running. Seeing the funny scene of pony, they bursted out laughing

As a result, the pony got frightened and he lost his control. He tried to jump up high

Consequently, the stick slipped off from the hands of father and the son and the pony was thrown straight into the river

The father and son both held their heads and began to cry
