devotional
service.

The husband takes on too many services in the temple, and has no time for the wife/children. The wife feels neglected, and thinks he gets the best of both worlds, and that her utility is only to maintain the house, feed his belly.

We have to go to Vidita's school tomorrow because it is parents'day.

Oh, bother! Why don't you go with her? You must understand that it is a mother's responsibility. You can hire a taxi and go. Here are 250 rupees!

A woman with dark hair, wearing an orange dress and a green shawl, stands on the left side of the frame. She is gesturing with her right hand towards a man. The man is sitting in a black chair on the right side of the frame, wearing a purple t-shirt. He has his arms crossed and is looking up at the woman. A green speech bubble is positioned between them, containing text. The background shows a doorway and a wall with a patterned tile design.

What will Vidita's class teacher feel?

A woman wearing a green shawl over an orange sari is standing and talking to a man in a pink shirt who is sitting at a desk. The man is looking at the woman. On the desk, there are several papers and a yellow bag. In the background, there is a doorway leading to another room and a wall with a decorative light fixture.

It does not matter. I have to meet my counsellors, there is a library committee meeting and I have to meet some guests in the temple, where is the time for such “karmi” things?

A husband is not merely a provider of money. He should not neglect his duties as a grihastha as he is responsible for taking care of the material, emotional and spiritual needs of the family.
